A Fair Deal For Father.

In Chicago the other day in deciding a divorce case the judge refused to allow a 15-year-old daughter to claim a third of her father's income for her education, chiefly music. The judge was more than right. Most of the money put on the average girl's education is badly spent, anyhow. There is not one woman out of 30 who when she is 25 can show that her music, her painting or her dancing, that she had as a girl, has helped her to become an efficient woman. If a girl really has talent it will show before she is 15, and if she has none then the money spent for indifferent teachers is wasted. In refusing to order the father to contribute $50 monthly for his daughter's education, the court said: "I have a young daughter myself, but you know that even father is entitled to consideration sometimes, even if he does drink occasionally."—Gleaner.

Jockey Killed.

Tommy Knight, one of the best known jockeys on the American turf, while on his way to the races at Juarez, fell from a train and was killed. Knight was a somnambulist, and while asleep walked out of the car in which he was riding while the train was going at full speed and was killed instantly. Knight rode Dick Welles to a world's record on a circular track in 1:37 3-5.

State's Debt.

The State owed $3,178,519.12 in interest-bearing warrants at the beginning of business Dec. 1. This amount is an increase in the indebtedness of the State about $200,000 during the last month.

SCHOOL CARNIVAL

On The 18th and 19th Will Present Novel and Many Interesting Features.

During the past few weeks the High School have been busy with the preparation of a big High School carnival to be held on the 18th and 19th of December, at the High School building. The Carnival promises to be a great success and to surpass anything ever before achieved by the High school students body.

Each class in the school will produce at least two attractions and many original and novel ideas will be presented. There will also be many booths and concessions.

A big street parade will be given at noon on Friday. The Carnival will start in the afternoon at 2 o'clock and in the evening at 7.

The tentative program of shows and exhibits will include a Minstrel show presented by the boys of the Senior class; a side show, produced by the Juniors; a menagerie under auspices of the Freshies. The Incubator Baby, by the Sophs. A wax work exhibit, by the Senior girls. An exhibition of noted folks by the Sophomores. A thrilling melodrama dealing with life in the wild and woolly West, by the Juniors, and many other novel and entertaining attractions.

PLEA THAT JURY UNDERSTOOD

Brilliant Retort of Robert G. Ingersoll to Splendid Argument Won the Lawsuit.

When Bob Ingersoll was in the prime of his law practice in Peoria the colonel happened to have as his client a young and buxom widow. The opposing counsel was Jonathan K. Cooper, an staunch a Presbyterian as he was an able lawyer.

At the close of the evidence Mr. Cooper arose and made a splendid argument on his side of the case, closing by saying that his legal opponent was prejudiced when it came to defending beautiful women.

After the venerable Presbyterian closed Colonel Ingersoll arose with a twinkle in his eye, and slowly and solemnly commenced as follows: "Gentlemen of the jury, the counsel on the other side is correct. I do have a leaning in the direction of beautiful women. I love the freckle about which play beautiful children, presided over by a smiling, beautiful mother. I tell you what it is, gentlemen of the jury, I would rather—much rather—if I had my choice, be in hell 15 minutes, sitting on a hard wooden bench beside a woman as beautiful as Cleopatra, than to reside a lifetime in heaven singing psalms with Jonathan K. Cooper."

Ingersoll won the suit.—Argonaut.

In the Servian Home.

The Servian is seen at his best in family life. Nowhere is the blood tie so strong as among the Serbs or reverence for parents more real. When a Servian peasant marries he does not leave home, but brings his wife into the "sadruga" or family tribe, often comprising as many as a hundred persons, ruled over by a family chief. This chief keeps the money, makes the purchases, and decides the minutest details of family life, and on his death a successor is appointed by the vote of the grown-up males of the "sadruga."

The whole family does not always, of course, live in one building, but it lives together in adjoining houses, sometimes occupying a whole street. Imagine enduring the proximity and perpetual criticism of such an array of mother-in-law, aunts, cousins, etc., and you gain some idea of the general equanimity of the Servian temperament.

Childish Reasoning.

A neighborhood meeting had been called, in a rural district, to pray for rain, and a sweet little maid trudged down the hot and dusty road bearing a huge umbrella.

"Why, Jennie!" exclaimed a surprised elder, overtaking the child, "why don't you open your parasol and protect yourself from the sun?"

"I didn't bring it for the sun," came the quiet answer, "I brought it for the rain. If our prayers are going to be answered, I'll need it, and if, seeing the elder's eyes twinkle, "we don't expect an answer, why do we take the time to pray?"

Didn't Want it to Be Public.

Miriam had picked up some bad words from the workmen employed about the place, and her mother, giving her a serious lecture on the subject, assured her that such language greatly displeased her heavenly father. The next day she was surprised to see Miriam rush to her room, throw herself down beside the bed and begin to whisper furiously to the curtain-dimness beneath.

"I'm so mad I just can't help swearing," explained Miriam, an explanation being demanded, "and I don't want God to hear!"

Duruy's History of the World

Four splendid cloth volumes, full of portraits, sketches, maps, diagrams

Today is the climax of a hundred years of preparation. Read in this timely, authoritative, complete, AND THE ONLY CONDENSED classic world history—of which over 2,000,000 copies have been sold in France alone—just what has taken place in the inner councils of Europe during the past one hundred years. Read in these entrancing pages how Russia has for years craftily been trying to escape from her darkness—to get a year-round open port, with its economic freedom. Read how Germany and Austria, fearful of the monster's latent strength, have been trying to checkmate her and how they have pinned all in this last, supreme stake.

The Lesson of the Past

THIS master of the pen shows you the glory that was Greece's the grandeur that was Rome's. He guides you through the Middle Ages, the picturesque old days of feudalism and the crusades through the Renaissance up to contemporary history, which Prof. Groenewegen completes in brilliant manner. In the story of the past lie the secrets of today. And you will understand them better when you get the Review of Reviews for a year—for the Review of Reviews will give you a sane interpretation of the events that are taking place with such rapidity. It is not enough to read the daily news reports. Your ability to comprehend conditions, and to discuss them rationally depends on a true interpretation of the meaning and the "reason why" of events. In your mind you must bring order out of chaos—and the Review of Reviews will do it for you.
